The Mystery of

ARKHAM MANOR.

Arkham village, June 23, 1924

Something fishy's going on here.

Can't put my finger on it - yet - but already I've got a feeling that things aren't what they seem in this sleepy backwater. Something terrible's about to happen...

Meanwhile, I'd better file my first article. The editor of the London Chronicle has issued me with one of those new-fangled plate cameras to photograph events and suspects, and he expects me to send in full-page layouts, complete with headlines and pictures! He reckons this could be the news story of the century.

That is, if I stay alive long enough to write it...

The Mystery of Arkham Manor—a brilliantly inventive detective thriller featuring animated graphics, notebook, telegram and camera facilities, plus the option to print out finished front-page new stories.
