

RIPPER

My editor, Ben Dodds, called me at 3 a.m. to give me the news.
It was a woman this time--the third victim.
Of all the reporters in this city,
the Ripper picked me to write to.
I knew that another mad letter to the city was soon to come and I would run it on the front page of the Virtual Herald.
I would let the world know
the Ripper had killed again.
